

Now available from Envision Technology: KNFB Reader Mobile

If you can take a picture – you can use this new handheld reading device!

Sorting mail, checking ATM receipts, reading hand-outs--busy people think nothing of doing such tasks on the run, unless they are blind or visually impaired, or have a reading disability such as dyslexia. The solution: a small digital camera that reads aloud printed material! Just hold the camera over print--a restaurant menu, a memo for work, print material on the wall--and snap a picture. In seconds the contents of the printed document is read aloud in clear synthetic speech. Capture, read, and discard the information; store for later reading; or transfer to a computer.

The KNFB Reader Mobile:

The latest breakthrough in print accessibility! The revolutionary Mobile places the functionality of a powerful reading machine into a multifunction cell phone. The Mobile puts the best available character recognition with text-to-speech technology, all in the palm of your hand - and it's completely mobile!

- ✓ Reads most printed documents, letters and memos to pages in a book;
- ✓ Reads address labels and package information and instructions;
- ✓ Reads an entire page or a few lines for identification;
- ✓ Stores thousands of printed pages with easily obtainable extra memory;
- ✓ Transfers files to desktop and laptop computers or Braille notetakers;
- ✓ Reads documents from computers or other devices.
- ✓ Availability of foreign language text recognition, and translation from any of the languages installed on your phone back to English. (This feature requires a data plan or wireless internet access.)
- ✓ Is completely portable and easy-to-use!

In addition, with the use of a Mobile Speak screen reader, the user can access the other functions of the phone device including making and receiving phone calls, personal information management such as contacts, calendar, etc. Also contains ability to run accessible GPS programs, access to Adobe PDF files, voice recorder, music player and much more.

With the KNFB Reader Mobile, you also receive free upgrades for one year.
